OVERVIEW

As a litigator Jamie represents clients involved in business disputes in state and federal court. Committed to serving her clients, Jamie has experience in an array of litigation matters involving intellectual property and trade secrets, non-compete agreements, antitrust law, healthcare law, real estate disputes, premises liability, and professional negligence.

Prior to joining the firm, Jamie clerked for the Honorable Gilbert V. Indegli of the Rhode Island Supreme Court. While in law school, Jamie interned for the Honorable Maureen McKenna Goldberg of the Rhode Island Supreme Court and for another Providence law firm. She also served as a research assistant for the Feinstein Center for Pro Bono and Experiential Education related to the importance of experiential education opportunities for law students, and for Mayor Jorge Elorza related to a variety of housing issues impacting the greater Providence community. Jamie was an editor for the Roger Williams University Law Review, a member of the honor's program, secretary of the Women's Law Society, and participated in the Pro Bono Collaborative.

Jamie lives in Rhode Island with her husband, Pat, and their two kids. Jamie is an avid skier and former competitive ski racer.
